SWEDISH REGULATIONS FAIR

Will Not Handicap American HYMAN FALLS BEHIND TILT Wenz, of Roselle, and Ten Eyck, Athletes - South Africa Plans Strong Team.

By Edward R. Bushnell.

One of the most encouraging bits of evidence that the quadrennial Olympic games B. Hyman in the national championship are to increase in importance as an international athletic feature is the fact that a number of foreign countries have folred the example set by France and the United States and converted their temperary: Olympic association into permanent respirations. England was the first counand an authoritative statement from the British Olympic Committee is that its association is to be a permanent body, charged scratches. with the duty of securing funds to pay the expenses of the English team to compete wherever these meets are held.

The Swedish Olympic Association will the most of it. Tilt then followed with 12 balls out of the next pyramid for his high run. At the fifteenth frame Hyman temporarily went to the front. Tilt passed him in the next frame and won by a comfortable margin. The final games will be played this week. ontinue its association. The Swedes have developed a tremendous interest in track and field sthictics and purpose to keep Sweden in the front hereafter. From Australia and South Africa come reports that similar movements are on foot there. William A. Tilt—15, 12, 3, 5, 4, 15, 13, 4, 6, 6, 0, 9, 13, 6, 6, 13, 5, Total, 131 balls; scratches, 6; net score, 125 balls; bigh run, 27 balls.

Referee—W. H. Flynn. France, which was virtually responsible for the revival of the ancient Olympic games at Athens, in 1896, has maintained a sort of national Olympic association ever since that date.

The permanent organization of so many Olympic associations means that the next time the Olympic games are held in this country there will be a good foreign reprewere held at St. Louis the foreign teams United States League May Reamounted to practically nothing. This was due, in a measure, to the fact that the revived Olympic games had hardly been established. As a matter of fact, the Eastern college athletes of this country paid little attention to the games. The international rivalry produced by the London games in 1905 was responsible for the permanent interest which has expressed itself in permaof Olympic associations.

The American committee has made a wise move in deciding to hold all three tryouts secording to the Swedish rules. The Swedish regulations are fair and will not The handicap any team. However, the Americans need to be familiar with the rules and no better method could be devised for familiarizing them than this.

As far as the athletes themselves are concerned the new rules affect only the weight men. In the field events-throwing the hammer, the discus and putting the shot-the Swedes have provided that the sthletes will not be allowed to use their own implements. They must use hammer, a shot and discus furnished by the Swedish committee.

In the hammer throw and discus our own authorities have had much trouble in securing authentic records. It has so frequently been found either that there was some defect in the construction of the weight was short, or the handle of the hammer not made in accordance with the rules, that many new records had to be disallowed.

The American committee and athletic authorities in general are pleased with the fairness of the Swedish rules. This country has maintained ever since the games that the International Olympic Council itself should establish a set of uniform rules. The council, however, has con tended that the country managing the games should have the privilege of decidwhat rules should govern the games and likewise to select its own officials.

Reports from South Africa indicate that the men from the veldt expect to make an even better showing than they did in 1908. when Walker astonished the world by rinning the 100 metres dash, and when Heffron finished next to Hayes in the Marathon run. It is their intention to send a team of eight men. Of this number they have one who they expect will take the place of Walker. His name is Patching, BASKETBALL MEETING QUIET and according to South African records he has done both the 100 and 220 yard events in better than even time. On what was said to be a poor track he last year made a new South African record of 0:221-5 for the furlong.

collegiate games he ran the distance in 1:50. Schoolboy Skater Wins Rousing For a country which has never done any thing of note in international athletics Germany is proceeding industrially to develop a good team. A number of athletic meets have already been held in Berlin and other cities, and many more are planned. The best man that Germany has at present is Passemann, who won the pole vault and the high jump at the English championships last summer. In the pole vault he can do better than 12 feet, and he has a record of 6 feet in the high jump. The latest sensation in the American athetic world is Sargent, a University of Michigan student, who, in a set of indoor games last week, cleared the bar at 6 feet inches. If he can even approach this height consistently he will be a most useful man for the Wolverines in the coming intercollegiate meet, and for the nation in the Olympics.

The race run by Weber was worthy of an Olympic champion, and his furious burst of speed fairly ran Lent off his feet. Weber leaped out when the flash of the gun sent the pack on their way, with Lent running at his heels. For the first hundred yards Weber was in the van, but on the second turn Lent shot out into the lead and hit up the pace. A yard first, then foot by foot he increased his advantage, but Weber rated along, running easily.

The third lap saw Lent holding forth in the lead, running strong and apparently out of all danger of defeat. Tom Mc-Laughlin, of St. John's Prep, came up to make the pace, and Lent dropped back into second place. Weber was third, and for a moment showed rights of laboring. Mc aughlin's lead was shortlived. Lent again took up the running, and McLaughlin dropped back into the ruck. Bryant, o Stuyvesant, moved up with the leaders and made it a three-man race.

On the bell lap Lent went out to make his spurt for the tape. Weber, too, moved up, and the two raced for the finish. On the first bend Weber gained a yard, and sweeping around the last turn he came up the circuit have become dissatisfied with on even terms. Rounding the curve the runners brushed shoulders, and Lent faltered for a stride. Conway, aided by a 7foot allowance, won in the decisive dash. The big fellow beat L. J. Ehmer by inches. So many athletes appeared for the onemile novice that two heats and a final were needed. More than one hundred and fifty athletes started With more than three thousand "extra" salesmen turned loose, there was nothing but noise. They yelled at nothing in particular, but at everything in general. The management tried to keep the youngsters check, but it would be just as easy to make a Brooklyn Bridge crowd act calmi; during rush hours. Although many of the boys broke through the lines, the floor space was kept fairly clear for a time.

Some of the irrepressible small boys gallery and perched there to the end. All seemed to enjoy the music, and when the intermission between selections became longer than they thought necessary they would call for more, their favorite method of calling for an encore being "Hey, perfesser, let her go!"
